Richmond Collectorship Abolished and Norfolk Takes Command.

With only two days' tenure of office remaining to Collector of Customs B. B. Arnold, and with no official word of his successor, there is something more than an air of uncertainty apparent in the force of the local custom-house. Until a few days ago when Secretary McAdoo surprised everybody by the announcement. retary McAdoo surprised everybody by the announcement that deputy collec-tors at ports reduced in rank under the reorganization scheme are to be appointed by the President, it was generally supposed that Special Dep-uty W. G. Smith, who has served ef-ficiently under Collector Arnold, would be named by Collector Hughes, of Nor-folk, to conduct the affairs of the Rich-mond custom-house. mond custom-house.

The warning issued by Secretary Mc-Adoo not only means that President Wilson will have to make the appoint-ment of the Richmond special deputs at the suggestion of Congressman at the suggestion of Congressman Montague, but carries a strong possibility that the designation of Hughes by Secretary McAdoo as collector of the new district of Virginia may not stand, and that the President will name a collector of Congressman Holland's selection. It is probable, though not at all certain, that Secretary McAdoo's selection. It is probable, though not at all certain, that Secretary McAdoo's appointment of Hughes as the new collector will be confirmed by President Wilson, but the uncertainty-surrounding the identity of the 'ranking officer of the district is adding to the unrest in the Richmond office.

unrest in the Richmond office.

No Notice Given.

The lack of tidings from Washington is taken here to mean that Congressman Montague has not made his selection of the special deputy to direct the affairs of the local customs-house under the supervision of Norfolk, and this fact does not tend to allay the excitement. Regardless of whether or not his successor is appointed to-day or Monday or not at all. Collector Arnold will automatically relinquish the office on Tuesday, unless special instructions come from Washington for him to continue in command until further notice.

to continue in command until further notice.

As a matter of fact, failing formal instructions from Washington, Special Deputy Smith will take charge of the local office, as usual in the absence of the collector, when Tuesday comes around and Mr. Arnold walks out. No entanglement or hitch in the collecting of customs is anticipated even in the event the officials in the Capitol overlook the fact that no one has been designated to step into Mr. Arnold's shoes, and the routine of the office will so on as usual, except for the sending of daily reports to the Norfolk office, until the presidential appointee comes to take hold of the work.

WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW

New York, June 27 .- The cotton market has been nervous and unsettled the past week, with prices easing off under nore or less realizing. Old crop months broke rather sharply to-day, owing to the circulation of July notices, estimated at about 15,000 bales, but new crop deliveries have shown a certain steadiness of undertone, owing to continued covering and reports of trade buying on comparatively moderate dips. The steady old crop situation and the continued activity of mill consumption seem to have strengthened convictions but it was believed that both would that a full even of their that a full crop of cotton will be needed next year, and while there has been a tendency in the trade to take been a tendency in the trade to take a favorable view of prevailing weather conditions, it is considered too early in the season for any feeling of certainty as to the actual yield. The government's crop report, to be issued at noon on July 3, will give both the acreage and condition as of June 25. Private reports so far issued have been somewhat conflicting, but most of the advices received have indicated some improvement in the outlook, and the local trade is talking an official condition figure of around $1 or $2 per cent, comparing with 79.1 per cent last month and $0.6 per cent last year. This would suggest a tair improvement for the suggest a fair improvement for the month of June, but with the most critimonth of June, but with the most criti-cal months still ahead there appears to have been few traders disposed to base aggressive bear operations on the new crop outlook. The houses with Liver-pool and continental connections, which were such heavy buyers in the local market last month, have been selling steadily here again durins the week, but it is rumored that part of the July notices were taken up by international houses, and the small local stock has doubtless been a factor in restricting doubtless been a factor in restricting sales for short account.

R. G. DUN'S REVIEW

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, June 27.—R. G. Dun's to-New York, June morrow will say;

There is some slackening in retail trade, the usual summer dullness being reported at many points, but whole-sale distribution continues in fair volsale distribution continues in fair volume. As for some time operators confine their orders to actual need. The new tariff naturally acts as a wholesome conservatism in this respect. The new crops now entering upon their most critical period have passed another week with no serious loss from their previous satisfactory condition. Also reports indicate some deterioration in spring wheat. An improved sentiment was manifest in the securities markets abroad, largely on the prospect of a satisfactory conclusion prospect of a satisfactory conclusion and the prospect of a satisfactory conclusion prospect of a satisfactory conclusion and the prospect of a satisfactory conclusion prospect of a satisfactory condition.

The shooting occurred in the store of Schlossberg Brothers, about 1 o'clock and so far as can be learned there were no eyewitnesses. Simon used a single shot, 22-calibre pistol, and physicians are of the opinion that the would is not serious.

Little could be learned of the cause of the trouble. It is said at Schlossberg's store that Simon was in the place of two or three times looking for Kahn to-day. Simon's place of business is to-day.
